From February 10. to February 17. 1736,7

PETERSBURG, September 11.

IT had been strongly reported here for some time, that Velt Marshal Munich had abandoned the Crimea, but the Court did not, however, think fit to declare the same, till a Day or two ago; when they owned that that General was arrived with his Army on the Banks of the Dneiper, whither he had thought necessary to move, in order to observe the Motions of the Turks, and to oppose any Attempt they might make, to invade the Russian Territories. The Conjectures made here upon the present Situation of the Muscovite Affairs, and Count Munich's having actually abandoned the Crimea, are, that in all likelihood this Court has at present laid aside all Hopes of conquering that Country, finding much more Difficulty in the Undertaking than was at first apprehended, and that the Russians have certainly lost a much greater Number of Men in their late Expeditions than has been given out. The Archbishop of Novogrod, who was esteemed a Man of great Learning, and had been always an Encourager of Arts and Sciences, died here the 8th Inst.

Sept. 18. The Persian Ambassador, who set out some Days ago, on his Return Home, having met at Derbent a Courier, who was dispatched to him by Kouli Kan from the Army near Bagdat, his Excellency forwarded him immediately to the Czarina, in order to acquaint her with the Contents of his Dispatches: The Substance of them is, that a Treaty was negotiating between the Porte and Kouli Kan in the Persian Camp; but that the latter had declared to the Turkish Aga, that no Peace should be concluded between the two Empires, unless the Grand Signior consented before-hand that Russia be included therein. Those Advices, nevertheless, have thrown this Court into such a Ferment, that three Couriers were dispatched the 14th; one to Vienna, another to Count Munich, and the third to Persia. The Governor of Derbent has likewise received Orders to send immediately an Officer of Distinction to the Persian Army, that he may be able to inform our Court of what is done with Regard to Peace; and that he may divert Kouli Kan from coming into any Measures that might be prejudicial to the Interest of the Czarina. Orders were at the same time dispatched to the Chief of the Cossacks, and to the Kam of the Tartars, who are under the Protection of Russia, to cause all their Forces to mount on Horseback, and join our grand Army; which, including the Body under the Command of the Prince of Hesse Homburg, will then amount to 200,000 Men. 'Tis reported here, that the Secretaries of the Imperial, English, and Dutch Embassies at Constantinople were arrived at the Turkish Army, in order to dispose every thing for a Congress.

LONDON, Sept. 20.

Extract of a Letter from Madrid, dated Sept. 3.

The Accommodation with the Court of Lisbon, is at a stand for the present, till the Affair of stopping the Courier be cleared up. Certain Powers have made fresh Remonstrances to the King concerning the new Company set up at Biscay, which his Majesty seems resolved upon at all Hazards. The Marquis de Valtgrenant the French Ambassador, never ceases to press the Evacuation of Tuscany, as the only Obstacle to a general Peace, all Things being fully regulated between the Emperor and the Kings of France and Sardinia; but all the Answer he can obtain is, that as soon as a Courier is arrived from the Duke of Montemar, which is hourly expected, Orders shall be given for the Transports at Barcelona to sail for Leghorn to bring away Part of the Troops. Yesterday the Court receiv'd Letters from Rome, which were not at all to their Expectation; and indeed, whatever may be the true Cause of it, the Stile of the Roman Court is perfectly altered of late: His Holiness, far from giving any Satisfaction to the Catholick King, insists upon Satisfaction himself, for what passed lately between the Spanish Troops and the Inhabitants of the Ecclesiastical State.

According to our Advices from Vienna, a Rupture between the Emperor and the Turks is unavoidable, especially if it be true, as it is reported, that they have attacked and defeated a Detachment of Palfy's Regiment; and instead of giving Mr. Dahlman the Imperial Resident a Categorical Answer to the Proposals of Peace with Russia, have intimated to that Minister not to stir out of the Grand Signior's Dominions without his Leave. His Imperial Majesty having received Notice of Count Palfy's Arrival in Hungary, he has ordered him to build a Bridge with the utmost Dispatch over the Danube, near Belgrade, and another over the River Theisse. Preparations for War are carrying on with great Vigour, the Magazines are filling up with all Kinds of Ammunition and Stores, and great Numbers of Spanish and Italian Deserters from Naples are taking on in the Imperial Service; but the common Belief is, that the mediating Powers will use their utmost Endeavours to bring about a Peace during the Winter, and if that cannot be effected, in the Beginning of the ensuing Year, their Imperial and Czarian Majesties will attack the Ottoman Empire with their joint Forces, and perhaps carry the War into the very Heart of it.

The Court of Russia does not seem to be in a very great Expectation of concluding a Peace this Year with the Ottoman Court, notwithstanding the Endeavours of the mediating Powers, to render that Negociation successful, for the Porte will hardly be brought to give up Precop to the Russians, and without that Preliminary Condition, it is not probable the Czarina will ever listen to an Accommodation.

Sept. 18. There are two blue Garters now vacant, one by the Death of the Earl of Peterborough, and the other by the Earl of Berkeley's Death; one, its said, will be sent over to the Duke of Saxe Gotha; and the Right Hon. the Earl of Isla is talk'd of for the other.

We hear, the Post of Vice Admiral of Britain, vacant by the Death of the Earl of Berkley, will be laid aside.

Letters from most Parts of England mention, that the Harvest is got in extraordinary well, and that it has been so plentiful a Year, that if there had not been a Demand for the the Exportation of Wheat, it would have been ſold by Chriſtmas at 3 s. 6d. or 4 s. a Buſhel; that Barley bears a good Price in moſt Places.

Sept. 21. Laſt Week was committed to Hertford Goal, William Newport, of Furneux Pellham in that County, Eſq; He attempted to kill one of his Maid-Servants, but ſhe out-running him, he met an old Woman in the Fields, whom he ſtab'd with a Knife, and ſhe dy'd on the Spot. He was formerly in the ſaid Goal for attempting the Life of his Man Servant, by running him thro' the Body with his Sword.

Yeſterday Morning died in Newgate Major Bernardi, one of the Perſons concerned in the Aſſaſſination Plot againſt King William.

Letters from Paris bring an Account that a celebrated Italian Singer had murder'd a Poſtilion, for which he was immediately executed.

Yeſterday Morning about One o'Clock, Capt. Innis, who came lately from the Coaſt of Barbary, was found lying on his Back in the Old Baily, wounded in ſeveral Places; it is ſuppoſed he had been ſet upon and robbed; for his Sword, Watch, Money, and one of his Shoe-buckles were gone; he was immediately carried to the Bell Inn, in Smithfield, where he died laſt Night about ten o' Clock in great Agony; he was in a kind of Lethargy, unable to ſpeak, and was attended by Dr. Fullerton, Phyſician of St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, whoſe Opinion was at firſt that he could not live. 'Tis ſaid, ſome Words have been heard by a Woman, as if ſhe knew of the Affair; and diligent ſearch is making after the Villains, who have been concerned in this execrable Deed.

Berlin, Sept. 23 'Tis ſaid that the King will go next Spring to viſit the Dutchy of Cleves, and the other Provinces of the King's Territories, in order to hear the Complaints of his Subjects, and particularly thoſe of the Principality of Minden. Laſt Sunday in the Afternoon, a Guſt of Wind burſt open one of the Windows of St. Peter's Church in Sermon-time; and a great deal of Lime being blown in, the Congregation thought that the Church was tumbling down, and ran to the Door in ſuch a Hurry, that ſeveral were hurt.

Dreſden, Sept. 24. At the Requeſt of moſt of the Inhabitants of this Country, there was lately a fourth Grand Hunting-match, in which 800 Deer were killed, to the great Joy of the People, on account of the Damages which they ſuffer from thoſe Animals; and wiſh there may be other Hunting-matches, to eaſe the Country of them; but in ſuch a manner, as not to render Veniſon dear.

Extract of a Letter from Legborn, dated Sept. 24. N. S. 1736.

The Sailors on board the Ship Dove, Benjamin Hawes, Maſter, richly laden, and bound for Ancona, having laid a Scheme for the killing their Captain, and running away with the Ship and Cargo, and ſworn Secreſy to each other, did, on the 18th Inſt. at Night, murder him, and alſo deſigned to kill the Boy; which he apprehending, jumped over-board, and by ſwimming, luckily ſaved himſelf; and on his relating the Fact to ſeveral Commanders of Engliſh Ships, they immediately put armed Men into their Boats, and went to the ſaid Ship Dove; where they ſeized the Crew, being in all eight Perſons; whom they brought away, and divided into ſeveral of the Engliſh Ships in the Mole, and kept them bound; among whom were three Deſerters from a Spaniſh Man of War. The Spaniards hearing this, ſent on board the Engliſh Veſſel where they were, and by Force took them away, altho' the Engliſh Colours were flying. And this Morning, by an Order from Florence, ſeveral of the Grand Duke's Soldiers went to the Engliſh Burying-Ground, and had the Captain's Corps dug up and examined (I preſume, to be ſatisfied whether the Boy's Account, that he was murdered, be true). The Engliſh Factory have proteſted againſt the violent Act of the Spaniards, in forcing away ſome of the Murderers, apprehending it to be a Violation of the Law of Nations. I herewith ſend you a Copy of a Letter wrote by a Perſon now on board a Spaniſh Man of War, who would willingly have been amongſt the other Villains.

My Dear Omeara,

'YEſterday I was brought on board; and the Captain having an Account of my parting, he examined the Caſe, and found me innocent, and blamed the Corporal for ſuſpecting me with ſo foul a Crime as Deſertion; for I really made out, that he deſerted me, and not I him: Therefore I don't doubt, but that, if Dennis does as he told me, that he would get a Silverſmith bound for me, he will give me leave to go on ſhore without a Corporal; but leſt I ſhould not have the Happineſs to be along with you, I thought proper to let you know what I would recommend to you to act. After the clearing yourſelves of your Enemies, I would adviſe you to go immediately firſt on the Coaſt of Ireland, and there lodge in ſecure Hands whatever Specie you have, and not run the Riſque thereof with the Cargo: Then proceed either to Nantz, Breſt, or Havre-de-grace; and report you came in by Streſs of Weather, and apply to a Merchant; I ſay, in caſe to Nantz, to Mr. Matthew Shee; if to Breſt, to Monſ. Mazuri; if to Havre, to Mr. John Fitz-Gerald of Rouan; worthy Men, and for whom I'll ſend you Recommendations. If you proſper, you muſt form Invoices of the ſeveral Articles of your Cargo, and that with Reſpect to the Prices in the Countries which you declare you have purchaſed them at: If I knew the Contents of the Cargo, I would inſtruct you of their current Prices in the reſpective Countries where they are purchaſed; as alſo how to form your Invoices ſo as to appear genuine: and I hope you'll do what you can to get me along with you, the which I covet; but in caſe it can't be done, we muſt have Patience. If you or Brian have ever a Watch-coat, old or new, or if you can get me one, without any Inconvenience to yourſelf, in caſe I can't get aſhore, I would expect you'd ſend it me; but I muſt tell you, that as your ſending it will not in the leſt augment my Affection, your not ſending it will not diminiſh any Part of the cordial Affection I have for you; and really I would not write for it, were it not that I apprehend this Winter. I have no more to ſay till I hear ſomething from you, but wiſhing you all Happineſs, I am, to you and your Friends, (Dear Omeara) A moſt affectionate

I direct this to Dennis, becauſe I would not mention you. Friend and Servant, A. Fiton.

Dantzick, Sept. 27. All the Letters from Warſaw, Cracow, and other Parts of Poland, generally agree, that the Flux makes ſuch a terrible Havock in moſt Country Places, that in ſeveral Villages and Hamlets not a Soul is to be found: Wherefore the King ſent two skilful Phyſicians from Dreſden to Warſaw, to put a Stop to this Diſtemper; which obliges ſeveral Lords and Ladies to fly to this City: but no one is admitted without a Certificate of Health. A Ship arrived in our Road from Rouen with a Preſent of Wine, which King Staniſlaus ſends to his Friends in Poland. The Ruſſian Commiſſary has received Advice, that the Grand Viſir had made no Motion againſt the Ruſſian Army, becauſe he waited the coming of the Imperial, Engliſh, and Dutch Ambaſſadors, to commence the Negociations of Peace.

Edinburgh, Sept. 27. Laſt Friday Cadwal the Soldier, who was ſuſpected to have robbed the Glaſgow Mail, was apprehended at Stirling Bridge, and after Examination by the Magiſtrates, was committed to cloſe Priſon. He has confeſſed the Robbery, and diſcovered his Accomplices. The 10 l. Note is likewiſe come to Town, but we hear Payment will be ſtopt for ſome time. He had left it in Payment for a Horſe which he had bought in Fife. And the Bag with the Letters was brought to Town this Morning, being found buried in the Earth within a Mile of Glaſgow.

Paris, Oct. 13 'Tis adviſed from Barcelona, that 20,000 Foot and 2000 Horſe lay in readineſs in and about that City, to embark upon the firſt Notice.

Lond. Sept. 29. The Spaniſh Armado is at laſt put to Sea, Part whereof has ſteered towards the Iſland of Majorca, and the reſt towards the Coaſt of Africa, with Troops to exchange the Garriſons of Ceuta and Oran, who are to be carried to Tuſcany; which is a farther Proof that that Dutchy is not to be evacuated in haſte.

The Downfal of Baron Neuhoff comes confirmed by a Letter from himſelf to a Gentleman in England; in which he owns, that, ſuſpecting the Behaviour of the Corſicans towards him, he was determined to watch an Opportunity to ſail for Barbary again. But in the Poſtſcript he ſays, that he was reſolved to ſtay there a Month longer, to ſee if the Succours promiſed him would arrive in time. He takes no Notice of any Aſſembly of Corſicans, but that of regulating.

lating the Diviſion of the Harveſt among the Heads of the Provinces. He likewiſe complains of his intimate Friend the Advocate Coſta, who acts as his Secretary, for diſcovering ſome of his Intrigues to the Corſicans; and ſays that he has of late taken the Method to make him write two Letters upon every Affair of Importance, one affirmatively, and the other negatively; and that he has ſent which he has thought proper, in order to conceal his Meaſures from his ſaid Secretary.

Yeſterday one Limpton was committed to the New Jail in Surry, for beating his Wife in ſuch a barbarous manner that ſhe died on Monday laſt.

Oct. 1. The Rage and Conſternation of the Populace at Conſtantinople continues to be very great, inſomuch that the Grand Signior is forced to have Recourſe to Numbers of little Stratagems, to calm the Minds of his Subjects, whom he lately amuſed with pretended Victories over the Ruſſians, and now he lulls them aſleep with a mock Embaſſy from Perſia; for it ſeems the Miniſter who is pretended to have arrived at Conſtantinople, with a Retinue of 100 Perſons is no more than a Turk in Diſguiſe; but as the forty Days ſaid to be allowed the Grand Signior for declaring himſelf are near expired, the Cheat will undoubtedly come to light, and may probably incenſe the Mob to ſuch a Degree as to give us Room to expect a ſudden Revolution in Turkey.

A Merchant in this City has lately received an Account from the Manager of his Plantation at Nevis, that the Chriſtmas Crop of Sugar was almoſt deſpaired of, by reaſon of a Fly or Vermin, which had got among the Sugar-canes, and deſtroyed moſt of them: So that the ſaid Plantation, which never yields leſs than 178 Hogſheads of Sugar yearly, will, 'tis feared, ſcarce produce 40 next Year,; and the ſaid Calamity runs thro' the Caribbee Iſlands.

Extract of a Letter from Lisbon dated Sept. 19. N. S. 1736.

A Dutch Man of War is arrived here from Sallee, having on board a Baſha and nine other Moors, whom they got out of the Bar by this Stratagem: Another Man of War of 18 Guns being in Company with this, they agreed that ſhe ſhould hoiſt Turkiſh Colours, and that they ſhould fire at one another, tho only with Powder; on which the Moors on ſhore, taking the ſmall Man of War for one of the three Ships they had out on a Cruiſe at Sea, ſent Boats off; but they ſoon found their Errror. The Baſha is a Man of Figure.

Oct. 5. The Duke of Montemar is now preparing in earneſt for the Evacuation of Tuſcany; but is not to ſee it completed, he having received Orders to depart with the firſt Convoy for Barcelona; where, 'tis preſumed, he is to put himſelf at the Head of a favourite Expedition of the Court of Madrid. In the mean while, the Count de Maceda is to command in his Stead in Tuſcany: And a Placaert has been iſſued at Piſa, giving Notice to all Perſons who have any Demands upon the Spaniſh Troops, to deliver in their Accounts, and receive what is owing to them; which is a Sign of the ſhort Stay of the Spaniards: Therefore the Imperialiſts in the Territories of Lucca have received a Reinforcement of 2000 Men, and expect very ſoon another Body of the like Number, in order to make up 6000 Men, who are to take Poſſeſſion of the Dutchy aforeſaid.

A great Quantity of Biſcuit is baking at Leghorn, for the ſeven Spaniſh Men of War lying at Spezia, which are ſoon to be reinforced by five more; but to what Quarter they are to ſteer is a profound Secret.

The new Emperor of China, charmed with the glorious Exploits of the Czarina, has ſent an Ambaſſador extraordinary to compliment her: His Excellency has already reached Tobolskoy; and his Charges are to be defrayed from thence to Petersburg by the Ruſſian Empreſs.

By the laſt Expreſs from Hanover we hear,, that a Courier from his Excellency Sir Everard Fawkener was arrived there; but that the Propoſals the Grand Signior made were not at all ſatisfactory, he inſiſting on Precop and Aſoff: Which, 'tis thought, will diſincline the Maritime Powers from being Mediators between the Porte and the Czarina.

His Majeſty, 'tis ſaid, will ſet out from thence the 20th Inſtant O. S.

October 6. The Czarina has diſpatched Orders to the Governors of Moſcow, Kiow, Smolensko, and other Places, to ſend, with the utmoſt Expedition, all the heavy Artillery and warlike Ammunitions they can ſpare, to the flying Camp of the Prince of Heſſe Hombourg, which is ſituate between Bender and Choczim, in order to lay Siege to one or other of thoſe Places, and by that means bring the Grand Vizier to a Battle.

They write variouſly from France, Spain, and Portugal, concerning the ſudden Diſappearance of Don Manuel, the King of Portugal's Brother, from the Portugueſe Court: Some ſay, that he is gone to Spain, but upon what Account they differ; ſome being of Opinion that he was to embark on board the Spaniſh Fleet at Barcelona, others, that he was gone to be married there to a Daughter of a Grandee of Spain: Others are of Opinion, that he is actually in France: So that, in Truth, no body knows what Route his Highneſs took.

After a very dangerous Paſſage, Dr. Sands, who has the Honour to attend her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs of Orange in her Lying-in, is ſafely arrived at Holland, and has been very graciouſly received at the Prince of Orange's Court.

The ſaid Doctor, the Lady Southwell, and all her Royal Highneſs's Attendants, are ordered to lodge in the Palace near the Hague, to be ready at hand.

Her Royal Highneſs is expected to lie-in about the latter End of this Month.

This Day a Hind is to be turned out on Sunbury Common, to be hunted by her Majeſty and the Royal Family.

Octob. 7. We learn from Warſaw, that Dondac Ombo, Chief of the Camuck Tartars, inſtead of joining Count Munich with 20,000 Men, as he promiſed, retired into Cuban.

Kouli Kan is ſatisfied to come to a Peace with the Turks, provided they acknowledge him Sophy of Perſia, and leave him in full Poſſeſſion of the Provinces which he and the Ruſſians poſſeſs along the Caſpian Sea.

On the 1ſt Inſt, was celebrated at Bruſſels the Anniverſary of the Emperor's Birth-day, when his Imperial Majeſty entered the 52d Year of his Age: The Nobility and Gentry were on that Occaſion feaſted in the moſt ſumptuous Manner; and nothing was heard that Day but Concerts of Muſick, and Salvos of the Artillery.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.

Monday laſt in the Afternoon, a New Congregational Church was gather'd in the Weſterly Part of this Town. And becauſe the Method of gathering ſuch Churches here, may not be known abroad; we ſhall give the Publick a a brief Account of this Tranſaction:

A Number of Chriſtians belonging to ſeveral Congregations in this Town judging it convenient to build a Houſe for publick Worſhip in the Weſterly Part thereof, had carried on the Building to a conſiderable Forwardneſs; 13 of their Number, being Brethren in full Communion with 5 ſeveral Churches here, and 1 in full Communion with the Firſt Church at Cambridge, having applied to their reſpective Churches, obtain'd Letters of Diſmiſſion to incorporate into a new Church by themſelves: Three others who had not been in full Communion with any of our Churches, offering to join them, and there being no Objection either on the Account of Doctrine or Converſation, but being known and agreable to them, the others accepted their Offer; and conſulting with ſeveral Miniſters to whom they belong'd, prepared a Covenant of Incorporation in which they could all agree, and then applied to ſome of thoſe who had been their Paſtors to aſſiſt them in the Solemnity of their Confederation. Accordingly on the ſaid Monday at 3 in the Afternoon, being the Time appointed, 2 of thoſe Paſtors, viz. the Rev. Mr. Prince and Foxcroft, met with the ſaid 13 Perſons; and having receiv'd the Evidences of the ſaid Diſmiſſions, made ſome Enquiries of the 3 propoſed Members and the others teſtifying their Acceptance of them; Mr. Prince the Moderator, beginning with a Premonition concerning the Solemnity of this Tranſaction, then proceeded to Pray. Mr. Foxcroft then Diſcourſed from Matth. XVIII. 20. Then all the Company ſtanding up, the Moderator deliberately read their Covenant which they had written fairly in their Church Record; to which at his Propoſal, all the

Seventeen

Seventeen lift up their Hands in Token of their Conſent, and then ſubſcribed their Names. The Moderator then addreſſing them in ſuch Terms as Theſe, We muſt now own you to be a true Church of CHRIST, and inveſted with all the Priviledges belonging to ſuch a One: And we pray you may have Grace to keep this Holy Covenant, and that you and your Offspring may enjoy the Bleſſings of it. Mr. Foxcroft then made the cloſing Prayer, and the Moderator pronounc'd the Bleſſing.

About Ten o'Clock laſt Wedneſday Night the Houſe of Leonard Vaſſel, Eſq; in Summer Street, in this Town, took Fire thro the careleſneſs of a Negro Servant, in not taking due care of his Candle when he went to Bed, the Flame whereof catcht ſome of the Furniture in the Garret, which happened to be well plaiſtered, otherways in all probability the Houſe would have been in imminent Danger. But by the Care and uncommon Activity and Diligence of Perſons of Diſtinction and Fidelity among us, a ſtop was preſently put to the Flames by the Help of Engines, and the Houſe ſaved without conſiderable Damage, or Loſs of valuable Goods that were promiſcuouſly toſſed about in the Yard and other Places thro' ſurprize.
